ORDER

This matter is before the Court on the Claimant's Motion for Attorney's Fees. (Doc. 18). The Claimant originally sought $179.41/hr for 13.4 hours of work by Mr. Charles Martin and $179.41/hr for 10 hours of work by Mr. Michael Prigodich totaling $4,198.19. The Commissioner responded that the Claimant only is entitled to $172.24/hr for work performed in 2009, $175.06/hr for work performed in 2010, and $179.41 for work performed in March 2011 for a total of $4,088.93. The Claimant did not file a reply.

Pursuant to the Equal Access to Justice Act ("EAJA"), "a court shall award to a prevailing party other than the United States fees and other expenses ... incurred by that party in any civil action (other than cases sounding in tort) ... brought by or against the United States ... unless the court finds that the position of the United States was substantially justified or that special circumstances make an award unjust. 28 U.S.C. § 2412(d)(1)(A). "Fees and other expenses" include reasonable attorney fees. 28 U.S.C. § 2412(d)(2)(A). "Attorney fees shall not be awarded in excess of $125 per hour unless the court determines that an increase in the cost of living or a special factor ... justifies a higher fee.” Id.

In Meyer v. Sullivan, 958 F.2d 1029 (11th Cir. 1992), the claimant’s counsel sought attorney’s fees pursuant to the EAJA for 57.8 hours at $125/hr, 13 hours at $125/hr, and 31 hours at $95/hr. The Government opposed any hourly rate greater than the then-statutory cap of $75/hr.¹ The district court granted the claimant $75/hr without applying the cost-of-living escalator and the claimant appealed.

The Eleventh Circuit interpreted § 2412(d)(2)(A) as establishing a two-part analysis for determining the appropriate hourly rate.

The first step in the analysis ... is to determine the market rate for similar services provided by lawyers of reasonably comparable skills, experience, and reputation. The second step, which is needed only if the market rate is greater than [$125] per hour, is to determine whether the court should adjust the hourly fee upward from [$125] to take into account an increase in the cost of living, or a special factor.

Meyer, 958 F.2d at 1033-34 (internal quotations omitted).

The Eleventh Circuit stated that “Congress undoubtedly expected that the courts would use the cost-of-living escalator to insulate EAJA awards from inflation” and that “this expectation will not be realized ... if district courts, without explanation, refuse to consider increases in the cost of living when calculating EAJA fees.” Id. at 1034.

Although the Supreme Court has implied that the cost-of-living escalator is “next to automatic,” the Eleventh Circuit did not accept that interpretation as part of its holding because “[a]lthough it seems difficult to envision a situation in which the district court would not adjust the cap upward for inflation, such a situation theoretically could exist....” Id. at 1034-35. Rather than deem the adjustment automatic, the Eleventh

Circuit requires courts determining attorney's fees to "articulate the decisions it made, give principled reasons for those decisions, and show its calculation." Id. at 1035 (quoting Norman v. Housing Authority of Montgomery, 836 F.2d 1292, 1304 (11th Cir. 1988)). Because the district court did not explain its decision not to apply the cost-of-living escalator, the Eleventh Circuit remanded for reconsideration of the proper fee award.

Here, for the first step, the Court must determine the prevailing market rate. The Court recently held in Eaton v. Astrue, 5:09-CV-383 (MTT) (Doc. 21), that the market rate for Mr. Martin was at least $180/hr and exceeded the current statutory rate with inflation. Although prior awards are not given "controlling weight," "there is some inferential evidentiary value to the prior award...." Dillard v. City of Greensboro, 213 F.3d 1347, 1355 (11th Cir. 2000). The Court still believes that the market rate for Mr. Martin's services exceeds the current statutory rate with inflation.

However, some of the work was performed Mr. Prigodich, who did not represent the claimant in Eaton. Mr. Prigodich has represented Social Security disability claimants since he graduated from law school in 2006, and the Court determines that the market rate for Mr. Prigodich's services is $150/hr. Because the market rate for Mr. Martin and Mr. Prigodich is greater than $125/hr, the Court must proceed to the second step.

Turning to Meyer's second step, the Court cannot find a reason to decline to apply the cost-of-living escalator if the market rate is greater than or equal to statutory cap with inflation. Judge Clay Land recently clarified how to calculate the amount of inflation in Hartage v. Astrue, 2011 WL 1123401 (M.D. Ga. 2011). In Hartage, Judge

Land held that the reasonable attorney's fees must reflect the year in which the work was performed and that "enhancements to compensate for a delay in payment should be reserved for unusual cases, such as cases 'where the delay is unjustifiably caused by the defense.'" Id. at *2 (quoting Perdue v. Kenny A. ex rel. Winn, ___ U.S. ___, 130 S. Ct. 1662, 1675 (2010)). Judge Land did not find that the case was unusual and did not apply the enhancement. Thus, Judge Land calculated attorney's fees based upon the annual average Consumer Price Index for 2009 and 2010. Judge Land applied the February 2011 CPI for work performed that month.

Consistent with Hartage, the Court finds that Mr. Martin worked 4.5 hours in 2009 at a rate of $172.24/hr, 7.7 hours in 2010 at a rate of $175.06/hr, .1 hours in February 2011 at a rate of $177.67/hr, .1 hours in March 2011 at a rate of $179.41/hr, and 1 hour in June 2011 at a rate of $181.21/hr. The Claimant did not ask for an enhancement and the Court does not find that this is an unusual case where an enhancement should be granted. Mr. Prigodich worked 10 hours in 2010 at a rate of $150/hr. Accordingly, the Court finds that the Claimant is entitled to $3,839.96 in attorney's fees.²

For the foregoing reasons, the Motion for Attorney's Fees is GRANTED. The Claimant shall receive $3,839.96 in attorney's fees.

²	Year	Rate	Hours	Total
	2009	$172.24	4.50	$775.08
	2010 (Martin)	$175.06	7.70	$1,347.96
	2010 (Prigodich)	$150.00	10	$1,500.00
	Feb-11	$177.67	0.10	$17.77
	Mar-11	$179.41	0.10	$17.94
	Jun-11	$181.21	1.00	$181.21
				$3,839.96
